BURGESS RETURNS ORDINANCES TO COUNCIL FOR REVISION.

Says Anti-Spitting and Fire Ordinances Are Not in Shape for Approval, but He Does Not Care to Veto Them.

CONTRACT LET FOR PEST HOUSE

But One Bid n for New Hook and Ladder Wagon and It Will Not Be Opened Until a Future Meeting When More Bids Are Expected—Reports of Treasurer and Burgess Bills Paid.

Town Council held a record breaking session of one hour and three minutes last night at which the principal business transacted was the letting of the contract for the erection of a pest house the election of a policeman and hearing what Burgess A D Soisson had to say about the anti spitting and fire ordinances which he sent back to Council for revision Burgess Soisson in returning the anti spitting ordinance accompanied it with the following explanation

I herewith return to you the ordinance entitled An ordinance prohibiting spitting on sidewalks pavements and public buildings and street cars in the Borough of Connellsville and providing a penalty therefor for your further consideration

This ordinance is not in condition for my approval but I do not care to veto it because of any errors or inconsistencies that may be found in its body

To me this ordinance is not clear. First Because public buildings will be interpreted differently by different people When passing the ordinance your honorable body may have meant only such buildings as churches schools and libraries while others might include hotels theatres rink lodgerooms and other similar buildings I would ask that you make this portion of the ordinance clear

Second In the body of the ordinance I find that the penalty for the violation of this ordinance is not in approval shape I understand that Council desires that the penalty be $1 00 wh reas I find in reading the ordinance the following A fine of two ($1 00) d llars for each and every offense This portion of the ordinance should be amended so that it may be thoroughly understood I cannot approve an ordinance on what it means to perform but upon what the ordinance itself says

Third In regard to that portion of the ordinance referring to street cars I find that the owners of these street cars have posted notices and have provided penalties for spitting in the cars and I fear that the p ing of an ordinance covering this matter might bring upon the borough no end of trouble and expense

I ask you to reconsider this ordinance and make such changes in it as you may deem necessary

The fire ordinance was returned for the following reasons

I herewith return to you the ordinance entitled An ordinance regulating the management of fires and creating and governing the fire department of the Borough of Connellsville county of Fayette State of Pennsylvania for your further consideration

I am of the opinion that the penalty provided as found in Section 10 of this ordinance is not in accordance with the Act of Assembly governing the same In this ordinance it says Shall be committed to the borough lockup not more than 16 hours nor more than five days I am advised that the Burgess is not authorized to commit to the lockup for a longer period than 48 hours on any one charge wh is in this ordinance it says Not more than five days

President Porter took the ordinances and referred them to the Ordinance Committee with the remark that it was a shift and the other men beside muttered their disappointment

Five bids were submitted for the erection of a pest house as follows

J N Sisley Co	$110 00
Connellsville Planing Mill Co	-15 00
Custer & Henry	-64 00
Keystone Planing Mill Co	-65 75
Fayette Lumber Co	-0 00

The contract was awarded to the Fayette Lumber Company The building is to be 16 by 21 feet with an eight foot ceiling It is to be constructed of rough hemlock boards lined with paper The contract does not include painting It is said that the Board of Health will make objection to the proposed rough construction of the building

The resignation of Logan Mitts as a policeman was announced and James Francis was elected to fill the vacancy His was the only application on file for the position

A representative of the J G Wier Company was present with photographs and details of book and ladder wagons and submitted a bid J T Huston said that in view of the fact that only one bid had been submitted he did not think it fair to open the bid as inquiries had been received from about 10 companies regarding bids He was also not well enough posted regarding the hook and ladder proposition at present to vote upon it intelligently It was finally decided to pass the matter over until the next meeting

The proposition to locate a fire alarm box at the corner of West Main and Arch streets was lost on a tie vote as was also the proposition to place an alarm gong at the corner of Pittsburg and Main streets President Porter with the Democratic members

MUCH TROUBLE

As a Result of Elector Officers Being Inexperienced in Making Up Election Returns

UNIONTOWN Feb 5—The county Commissioners are having greater difficulties than ever before in attempting to make up the regular election ballots as the result of the recent primary In many places only one vote was cast for two candidates making a tie vote and the Commissioners have sent for the parties to cast lots A letter received from Fayette City this morning illustrates the condition of affairs The letter read

Dear Sir I Will Not withdraw in Favor of Him and if He Don t Care I dont care so let her G

Another man received a Prohibition vote and was nominated an Inspector but says he wont run Some others have requested that their names be taken off the ballot Many letters and complaints have been received and the Commissioners are greatly puzzled over the condition of affairs The most of the difficulty rose from voters writing names upon the ballot

PHILIPPINE VETERANS

Banqueted Nearly Fifty Strong at Smith House Last Night.

TALES OF THEIR SERVICE DAYS

Were Told by Members of the Tenth and Other Regiments That Were Under Fire in Luzon—Capt. Crow Made Clever Address.

Nearly half a hundred veterans who saw service and were under fire in the Philippines during the war with Spain and in the Filipino insurrection banquetted at the Smith House last night It was the best gathering held by the veterans They are held annually and each year the number has been increasing Last night s affair was a typical gathering of veteran soldiers There was that free and easy spirit of comradeship only to be found among men who have gone through such trials together Colonel James E Barnett was to have been present with Colonel Richard Coulter Both of them were unavoidably detained at home Colonel Barnett sent a telegram expressing his regret at not being able to be present with his old comrades of Company D of whom he said he had the most affectionate remembrances a Company of which Connellsville and Fayette county ought always be proud A H Anderson of Pittsburg also sent regrets as did Colonel Coulter in a letter from Greensburg

Lieutenant Albert J Buttermore acted as toastmaster and at the head of the table was also Capt H A Crow Major I P McCormick and Capt J A Loar the latter of Mount Pleasant

The banquet was a six course dinner and if Proprietor A A Straub had been chief of the cook tent and treated the boys as he did last night they would have been willing to elect him Governor of Pennsylvania upon his return Soldiers as a rule dont have much use for their cooks He is the butt of all their knocks, but not so last night

Capt J A Loar was the first speaker after the veterans had spent an hour and a half at the two long tables arranged the length of the dining room Captain Loar referred to the affectionate feeling with which he regarded every member of his company and how that feeling had not abated in the slightest since the campaigns of 1898 and 1899 Captain Loar promised the boys a celebration at Mt Pleasant before long and expressed the hope that all the members from Company D and those who were present last night would attend A W Walters of Waltersburg suggested that an effort be made to get the addresses of those members of Company D who have scattered to parts unknown and whose whereabouts are now unknown to their comrades W M Laptchart of Cumberland expressed his pleasure at being present and hoped he would be on hand at many similar occasions He urged all of the veterans to stick together Rolo Conley of Baltimore talked in a similar vein

Captain Crow made a clever and interesting address dealing with the Philippine Veterans organization and urging them to stand together pointing out the honor of their position and the value of organization in the Society of the Army of the Philippines He said the Eighth Army Corps were the pioneers of civilization in the Far East Captain Crow s address commanded the closest attention

Pat McConville a veteran in the navy and U S A responded neatly when called on as did Walter Devlin and Harry Wilson the former of Company D He was the first American soldier to take the smallpox in the Philippines Wilson urged the purchase of nine guns by the Camp so that the honors of war can be done in case of death without borrowing rifles About $8 00 was collected for this purpose U J Durst of the 11st regiment John W Finley Wm Levy who was in the civil service in the Philippines during the Spanish war Fred Woods Patrick Dunn of the 13th Minnesota Frank Port Buddy Martin George Gemas Herman Walker and Harry Hay all were called on and responded with tales of their experience Dunn s regiment policed the city of Manila after its fall and a tough disagreeable job it was he said Frank Port the baby of the regiment was asked to tell of his experiences with the ladies in Luzon He said he was afraid Levy praised the work the American school teachers are at present doing in the Philippines

It was five minutes to midnight when adjournment was taken and a happier crowd of veterans never got up from a banquet table

The following were present Major I P McCormick Lieutenant A J Buttermore H O Walker H L Bishop U J Durst M C Goodwin J C Herwick L A Dunn R J Cossland Albert Pickard H C Wilson Fred Woods A W Weimer William Levy William Templeton, S S Clark F B Port Ernest Plump P J McConnville R J Cunningham George Conn, Walter Devlin J R Cunningham J A Kessler George B Gemas H A Crow J S Coll R D North Connellsville

WAGONS OVERTURNED BY WIND

Telephone Communication to County Seat Cut Off While the Storm Continues to Rage With Unabated Fury. Streets Dangerous From the Sleet.

The worst weather of the winter season blew in on the morning today, and with a terrific fury raged throughout the morning and promises to continue into the night Every method of travel was affected by it the streets were dangerous and the fury of the wind coupled with the driving rain and sleet made it a day to be remembered Extra precautions were taken by the trolley companies and railroads to avoid accidents and operate on time but as the storm increased in fury this was an impossibility Trolley service was maintained regularly up until 11 30 o clock by heroic efforts sleet scrapers having been put on and men placed on very dangerous hill of the West Penn system in order to keep the rails clear At 11 30 o clock the schedule was broken and operation of cars from that time on was carried on every once in a while The heavy sleet that covered the rails caused cars to stall all along the line, and it was practically impossible to operate them for any distance owing to the fact that as soon as they got out of one difficulty they ran into another in the same line The hills too were extremely treacherous and cars had to be operated over them at the lowest speed

This afternoon light and telephone wires on East Main street came down They were removed from the street car tracks and will not delay Scottdale traffic Current has been shut off them

As a result of the terrific wind storm the grocery wagons of Daniel Sinclair and the Anchor grocery were overturned this morning and completely demolished Sinclair s wagon turned over at the corner of Main and South Pittsburg street The driver, Harry Rinder, was slightly injured The Anchor wagon turned over on East Main street The driver Charles Rhodaback was thrown to the ground, but escaped injury

A large plate glass window in Davidson s grocery store was also broken

Chief of Police B Rottler was stationed at the corner of Main and South Pittsburg streets and assisted the school children across the street It was necessary to carry many of the smaller children across At times it was impossible for pedestrians to get around the corner of Main and North Pittsburg streets

Telephone communication over the Tri State lines to Uniontown was cut off at 10 o clock and the Bell lines were also blown out of service, but connection was made with Uniontown via Pittsburg Reports from there state that the storm raged with the same fury as it did here

On the steam roads it was impossible to make the schedule the grip of the storm extending to beyond Pittsburg Train No was more than an hour late and Train No 3 was reported 40 minutes late from Uniontown

In town the storm checked all business and those who attempted to walk the streets soon sought shelter Brimstone Corner was the centre of the hurricane and men were there swept from their feet by the fierce wind The pavements were made treacherous by the sleet and danger lurked everywhere Many failed to get their noon lunch on account of the trolley service being suspended

A mistake in railroad and trolley signals this morning at Ferguson caused a B & O engine to back a train into car No 202 of the West Penn The railroad man signalled for the engineer to back up and the motorman mistook it for a signal for him to cross The car was slightly damaged but none of the passengers were injured The train was moving very slowly at the time of the accident.

WILLIAMS LINES UP.

Minority Leader in House Places Himself Squarely Beside the Nebraskan.

DISCUSSES RECENT MESSAGE

Declares It Contains Doctrines Dangerous to the Republic and Does Not Accord in Many Respects With Democratic Principles

Washington Feb 5—General debate on the Indian appropriation bill in the house of representatives was extended so as to permit its continuance until the close of the session Mr Williams (Miss) was recognized at once for an hour and taking for his text the president's recent message which has been so thoroughly discussed said he disagreed with Mr Hepburn's statement that the message met with the approval of the entire American people Indeed, he said there are things in it sensational federalistic and dangerous to the American republic

Mr Hepburn he declared had threatened the 'big four' of the house—the speaker and Messrs Payne, Dalzell and Sherman—when he asserted that the house would pass the remedial legislation the president had recommended He hoped to see the standard of rebellion raised by Mr Hepburn and he said he hoped to see some of the things spoken of in the message enacted into law He was not a hero worshiper and therefore he would consider the message without any regard to the Hon Theodore Roosevelt from whom the message emanated I shall consider it he said amid loud Democratic applause just as if it had been a message emanating in the past from Grover Cleveland or William McKinley or a message which more nearly resembles in its substance one to emanate in the future from the Hon William J Bryan

Not Afraid of a Radical

Mr Williams declared that he was not one of those who were afraid of a radical in the white house He discussed briefly the history of railroad rate legislation and insisted that it was of Democratic origin

Returning to the president's message, Mr Williams said it was not deserving of an all around eulogy upon the part of any man who loved democratic institutions There were however good things in it He did not think he said that the Democrats would indorse that part of the message which recommended restoring to the railroads the power to pool or which advocated federal licensing of corporations or which declared it useless to attempt to punish 'the men the flesh the beings' who violate the law in the name of corporate authority As to the corporations Mr Williams declared they never would be properly punished "until you visit punishment upon the flesh and blood from whose brains and by whose acts the violations take place In this connection he referred to Paul Morton former secretary of the navy and asked "Did he get out of the cabinet to go to a prison after a confession of a long continued violation of these very laws"

Recalls Morton Case.

No, he said but instead he jumped into a lucrative position in private life with a letter of commendation from the president

Mr Williams insisted that a corporation as such could not commit a crime and therefore he advocated punishing the responsible heads of the corporations Punish one he said 'and you will not have to punish any more'

Policies of Discredited Dictator Are Reversed in Portugal

Lisbon Feb 5—Lisbon is beginning to recover from the shock of Saturday's tragedy but a strong undercurrent of popular and governmental nervousness remains The political tension is slackening although the Progressists refuse to join in the concentration of the cabinet which Admiral Ferreira do Amaral is forming from all the monarchical groups because the Conservatives are in predominance The hitch however is likely to be straightened out and a temporary union of all the monarchical elements attained for the purpose of getting the country back on a constitutional basis, ending dictatorship and restoring tranquillity as expressed by the leaders

Senor Bernardino Machado the leader of the peaceful wing of the Republicans agrees to a truce provided that his friends now under arrest are liberated freedom of the press restored and the elections ordered Admiral do Amaral a favored friend of the queen who assumes power is committed to the reversal of the entire policy of the dictatorship the abolition of repressive measures and the restoration of the old liberal monarchy On Saturday government by decree will be withdrawn amnesty accorded political offenders not implicated in deeds of violence and the embargo on the press raised Franco's downfall is complete

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, FEB 5, 1908

THE CIRCULATION BLUFFERS' BRIGADE

The palpable manner in which the circulation bluffers of Fayette county dodge the issue when it is brought home to them by the simple proposition, repeatedly made by The Courier and again offered to have the respective circulations examined by disinterested parties is well illustrated by the following from the Uniontown Genius

The disesteemed Connellsville Courier says the Genius is a circulation bluffer Is it Let us see what the Courier is a yes the Courier is a circulation liar

The Shifty Sadie or Slippery Sal of Mud Island swears to its figures People who do business with the Courier evidently appreciate the necessity of the oath But the Uniontown Morning Herald has repeatedly called it a circulation liar We believe that is the ugly term to which the Courier answered

By the way did not the Herald offer to bet the Courier $100 that it could prove the Courier was a circulation liar?

Did not the Herald offer to give the same amount to charity if it could not prove the same charge when the Courier whined it had conscientious scruples against betting?

Did not the Courier pointedly decline to proffer the same donation if the Herald could prove the Courier was a circulation liar?

Yes we believe that all this happened We further believe the Herald's offer is still open

The Genius is owned and published by the same company which owns and publishes The Herald The papers are published from the same office The Herald made the same bluff about circulation that The Genius has made and it was called in the same manner by The Courier

The Herald's only answer to our proposition for an open investigation of circulation claims was an offer to bet that The Courier was a liar This offer it has been the effort of The Herald and its echo, The Genius to misrepresent They would have the public think that The Herald wanted to bet that The Courier lied about its own circulation whereas as a matter of fact The Herald took exception to the statement made in these columns that The Courier had from twice to thrice the circulation of The Herald We several times explained that this was our information but that we might be mistaken that we might not print three times as many papers as The Herald and possibly not quite twice as many and if so we were willing to acknowledge it, but in order to arrive at the truth we proposed to leave the matter to disinterested parties for investigation

But this didn't suit The Herald Like the guilty Irishman it wasn't justice it wanted It evidently didn't want the truth to be discovered It contented itself by trying to throw dust in the eyes of the public It crawled itself hoarse with the cry Circulation liar If we have made any slight mistakes concerning the actual circulation of the Herald Genius Combine the error is certainly an excusable one since there is no definite information to be had on this subject If the Herald Genius Combine had the honesty and courage to follow the example of The Courier and frankly state under oath just how many copies of each newspaper were printed every day there could be no excuse nor any inclination to misrepresent them but they do neither they deal in vain pretensions instead of convincing proofs they invite suspicion, they force the conclusion that the Dinkey Dailies have formed a Bluffers Brigade

We have spared neither labor nor expense to make The Courier the best daily newspaper in Fayette county That we have succeeded is attested by the fact that it has the largest circulation of any of its contemporaries We make this claim with confidence and that confidence is not impaired but rather strengthened by the fact that all our propositions for open investigation have been ignored by the Uniontown papers mentioned

In the meantime we once more challenge our Uniontown contemporaries to a disinterested investigation of our respective circulations and we propose that the reasonable expenses of such investigation be borne by the newspaper found to have the smallest circulation

SERVING ON THE JURY.

The work of drawing jurors is now in progress and in due time a long list of good men and true will be made known as those called upon to assist in the administration of justice While it is a duty of every good citizen to lend his time and effort to this cause yet it is an onerous duty, and one which busy men seek excuses for

It is a serious tax upon the time of some citizens to serve as jurors Certain occupations do not admit of such enforced absences without grave consequences The disposition of the court is necessarily opposed to excusing jurors, for the reason that the example is too contagious

Nevertheless there are exceptional cases, and the court should exercise such reasonable and proper discretion as may lie in its power

THE SHADOW OF THE GARBAGE FURNACE

The shadow of the garbage furnace falls athwart Connellsville again in the shape of notice from the State Health Commissioner that the dumping of garbage in the Youghiogheny river must cease

The Courier has called attention from time to time that sooner or later the town would be obliged to provide itself with a garbage furnace or some other means of sanitary disposal of garbage

Some efforts have been made along this line but they have lacked vigor and have lapsed into innocuous desuetude The garbage furnace is something which the authorities will have to look forward to It cannot be evaded forever

Colonel Robbins serves notice on Colonel Huff that it is Butler county's turn to have the Congressman but if the nomination must go to Westmoreland by reason of the preponderance of her Republican vote Colonel Robbins has not said he would be unwilling to accept it if he was pushed In the meantime it may be observed that there is no political wisdom in the turn system It is usually the individual who is interested in the turn system while the people are interested in an efficient representative

Landlord Fitlow of Uniontown is never stingy when he sets 'em up

Colonel Bryan still protesting that he is in the hands of the Democratic party suggests that the Pennsylvania delegates to the Democratic National Convention ought to be instructed for him if they are favorable to his candidacy Colonel Bryan is getting a little anxious but the Denver outcome He probably realizes that A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush which is to say that a Sure Thing is more desirable than an Open Chance even though the latter may appear to be a Real Cinch

The pay for it per pound system seems to have been subject to variations

The Income Tax will not down

There are some Big Talks for the Big Stick in Congress just now

The Tenth Regiment veterans were the Pioneers of the Philippines

The Ground Hog is handing it to us

It was the thief who cried loudest, Stop thief and it is the circulation liar who cries loudest Circulation Liar The thief is in this much similar to the Justice is the thief both are just when investigation is proposed

The fire whistle continue unreformed

A New Jersey minister asks his congregation for permission to speak the truth The minister had better ask himself What would Christ have done

The sale of daughters in marriage seems to be against the laws of the Church as well as those of the State yet such sales take place every day among the rich as well as the poor and the father does not always conclude the bargain

The State Railway Commission is ready for business and the buccaneers had better take to the woods

The Town Council of Vanderbilt is not wise in trying to emulate the example of Connellsville

There will be no Tariff monkeying this year Congress does not feel like disturbing business any further The currency trouble has been sufficient for the present The energies of the legislative bodies should be directed to its improvement

Greene county's dinkey railroad will perhaps have no trouble in establishing the fact that 2 cent fares are not profitable to it

Returning prosperity has struck the Washington mines

John Sharp Williams and William Jennings Bryan have evidently kissed and made up but the belligerent attitude of Williams and De Armond remains in statu quo

Ohio is flirting with the Initiative and Referendum

The sympathy of the Connellsville coke region goes out to Thomas Lynch and his family in their sad affliction

SCHOOL PATRONS' DAY

Will Be Held at Scottdale on Friday, February 21st.

W. C. CLARKE DIES SUDDENLY.

Party of Mill Town Men Leave on Tour of Rubber District in Mexico. Program for the Men's Mass Meeting the Coming Sunday.

SCOTTDALE, Feb. 5.—Principal Edgar Reed of the Scottdale schools has announced that the annual Patrons Day exercises will take place on Friday, February 21, that being the day nearest Washington's birthday. This occasion is always celebrated at that time and the exercises consist of such things as are intended to impress on the minds of the pupils the character and work of such men as Washington and Lincoln and teach lessons of patriotism. There will be special programs arranged for the day in all the rooms of the school from the High School to the Primary Department. These programs will be carried out at the afternoon session which will begin at 2 o'clock and close at 3:30. In addition to the programs that will be carried out, there will be on exhibition work done by the pupils in the different rooms. The public is most cordially invited to attend the exercises, visit any room they desire during that time and stay as long as they can.

Word was received here yesterday of the death of W. C. Clarke at his home in Philadelphia, his death having taken place during the day previous from locomotor ataxia. Mr. Clarke was 51 years of age and is survived by his wife and a step son. A sad feature of the case is the fact that his father, the venerable James H. Clarke, died here on January 22 and that his mother is lying very ill at the home of Mr. Campbell on Broadway. W. C. Clarke was here to attend the funeral of his father and left for home on Saturday of last week. He was not well when he left and death followed soon. It has not been decided yet whether or not the funeral will be held in Pittsburg or Philadelphia.

G. F. Kelly left yesterday afternoon for Pittsburg where he joined a party of about ten people from this section who will make a trip to the countries of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca, Mexico, to inspect some rubber plantations in which they are interested. They will be gone about two months.

Mrs. G. F. Kelly left this morning for Philadelphia where she will take a course of five weeks in vocal music with Prof. Kowalski and visit her niece, Mrs. C. H. Raub.

The program for the monthly mass meeting for men under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. includes an address by Rev. J. B. Randall, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church of Greensburg. His subject will be "The Personal Obligation." Rev. Randall is said to be a very interesting speaker. There will be excellent music by a large chorus led by an orchestra. The meeting will be held on Sunday afternoon next at 3 o'clock in the United Brethren church.

J. W. Brooks began yesterday the active moving of his store from the Savings & Trust building to the Jarrett building and expects to be located in his new room by this evening.

Miss Jessie Snead left yesterday for Clairton where she will spend a few days visiting her brother, C. B. Reed, who has been seriously ill for some time.

Messrs. J. S. and F. R. Parker were business visitors to Pittsburg yesterday.

Messrs. J. C. Trimble and S. W. Yahner are jurors at Greensburg this week, being among the men who have the honor of attending the first session of court in the new building.

BURGESS RETURNS ORDINANCES.

advocated the alarm box at the corner of Main and Arch streets and stated that when the system was installed a box was left off of that corner because of it having then been proposed to erect an engine house near City Hall.

The Councilmen who opposed the proposition stated their reasons very clearly. There was no price of the gong sent given by the company. It might cost $50 or $500. They stated they want to know what they are jumping into before plunging ahead and then considering the cost later, a policy that has often been pursued in the past.

Council then adjourned a little after 9 o'clock.

WHISTLE WON'T WORK.

Big New Fire Alarm Fails to Respond When Steam is Turned On.

Fire Chief J. W. Mitchell last night notified the Council that the new whistle purchased for the fire department had been set up in the shed erected on the tower for it but that the whistle refused to whistle. He said that it had been connected with a [illegible] steam line but it failed to do its duty and no one knew how to make it operate. A letter was read from the Gamewell Alarm Company, stating that a man would shortly come around and fix it up but that the company did not wish to be at any more expense as they had already lost $[illegible] on the Connellsville job.

The removal of the South Side hose to Francis [illegible] was asked. Chief Mitchell contended that the old department could [illegible] the South Side point which it was impossible to quickly reach the top of the hill. He said that with two hose carts located there good protection would be afforded the people of that district while the central department could protect points on the South Side. Members of Council thought that it was a good move.

MR. FINNEY HERE

Came Up this Morning to Visit the Local B. & O. Office.

Robert Finney, general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, came up from Pittsburg this morning to pay the local office a visit. It was stated that there was no special significance attached to the visit but that it was only made to look over the general business. Mr. Finney expects to return to Pittsburg this afternoon.

BUYING GRAIN.

Men Who Farm for Years Drop Work for Development of Indian Creek Valley.

Farming was not as extensive in the Indian Creek valley last year as in former years owing to the industrial development that is going on there and farmers are now buying large quantities of grain for their stock. In the past week six car loads of corn have been shipped to the farmers of that neighborhood. The corn has been coming from Sabetha, Kansas, where there are a number of Fayette County people engaged in farming.

During the number of years of the various neglected their farms to engage in work with their teams on the extension of the Indian Creek Valley railroad and many of them also engaged in lumbering. As a result of this fields that have for years been planted were allowed to grow wild.

The new railroad into the territory has aided the farmers very much in getting grain to their doors.

FEBRUARY BARGAIN MONTH

SEMI-ANNUAL CLEARANCE

Nothing the Union Supply Company does gets more care and is looked more forward to than the Semi-Annual Clearance Sale. The Semi-Annual Clearance Sale has been going on since the first of January. February is Inventory Month and this month we are going to push the Clearance Sale strenuously. Owing to the great depression in business our stocks are heavy. We must reduce them. Clearance Sales cut prices. Not only remnants but all surplus broken lots and slow selling lines must go.

Clearance Sale of Blankets, Comforts and Quilts.

Soiled lines and surplus lots, every blanket in the house. It will pay someone from every household in the coke region to go to a Union Supply Company store and when they do so they will take notice of the wonderful cut in prices. It is not only blankets and all kinds of bed clothing but beds and bedding are included. The beds are heavy styles, modern. Every price on every article is reduced in many instances one half. Such a cleaning was never heard of in any store in Fayette or Westmoreland County.

Cannon and Payne Tell Delegation There Will Be No Tariff Commission.

SPEAKER SETS FORTH HIS VIEWS

Assures Hearers That Tariff Commission Would Only Complicate the Situation—Says Senate Is Not to Be Depended On—Next Congress to Act

Washington, Feb 5.—The present congress will not appoint a tariff commission. Revision of the tariff will be undertaken next winter in the short term. These announcements were made by Chairman Payne of the house committee on ways and means in the presence and with the tacit approval of Speaker Cannon, the occasion being a call upon those leaders by a tariff revision delegation from various parts of the country comprising representatives of many of the biggest manufacturing and industrial concerns in the United States and headed by James W. Van Cleave of St. Louis, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, former Governor N. J. Batchelder of New Hampshire and H. E. Miles of Racine, Wis., chairman of the tariff committee of the National Association of Manufacturers.

The delegation paid their respects to the president. Later they went to the capitol and were received by Speaker Cannon and Chairman Payne. There they spent more than an hour presenting their case and listening to replies by the two foremost Republican leaders in the house, which, while they were cordially couched, were practically a refusal of all that the delegation had journeyed to Washington to plead for.

Argues for Commission

In introducing the subject of the appointment of a tariff commission in line with the Beveridge bill recently offered in the senate, Mr. Van Cleave said the delegation were unanimous in the belief that "the matter of the tariff can best be handled by the application of a hard headed business bill which would so amend the tariff schedules as to encourage the development of foreign commerce by the producers of the United States without at the same time exposing their goods to the reactionary effects of free trade. He said it was the firm belief of the vast interests represented by the members of the delegation that a wholesome revision of the tariff could be best got at by a commission appointed to ascertain the costs of domestic productions, the relative profits derivable from home and foreign sales and all the multitudinous facts appertaining to so complex and important a subject.

"We want," he said, "and we believe we can truthfully state to you that the whole country wants a sound and rational business consideration of the subject and we believe after long and earnest study of the situation that the suggestion of the appointment of a tariff commission to stand between us and you—to receive and weigh and formulate the mass of technical information we have to offer and to then present it to congress in compact and intelligent shape—embodies the best means of arriving at that result."

In his general answer to the statements of the delegation Mr. Cannon spoke in part as follows:

Speaker Cannon's Views

"You say the tariff ought to be revised. You have virtually said that it ought to have been revised the day it was enacted—that it was wrong in the beginning. Well, it was not perfect and it is no perfect now. Protection, gentlemen, is with God, not with humanity, and as our ninety millions of people constitute sovereignty in this country and can only exercise that sovereignty at the ballot box, they divide us into a majority and a minority, so that when you come to enact legislation some party has always been and always will be—at least for a generation and sometimes for longer—responsible for that legislation and the other party will occupy the standpoint of criticism. That is as it should be. And now that the underbrush is cleared away, as it were, let's get to the point. Let me suggest that should the house pass such a tariff commission bill as you ask, there is no certainty of what the senate would do. In the senate there is no previous question. There three senators can by virtue of their right to an unlimited occupancy of the floor hold up any measure for as long a two years without possibility of prevention.

Reason on Both Sides

"We once, I remember, had a tariff commission. And I am told that its report was so voluminous that it was never even read. It is one thing to make suggestions. It is another thing to enact those suggestions into law and take the consequences if you make a mistake. I fear greatly that your tariff commission would turn itself into a debating school, just as we do with ourselves here in the house, and that there would likely be a majority and a minority report. I never saw man against an economic question of any sort that could not have much said for it on either side."

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

THE heat which had been severe in June driving the last fashionable loiterer into the country continued fiercely through out July. August was stifling.

Nobody who was anybody remained in town except some wealthy business men and their million odd employees, but the million being nobodies didn't count.

Quarrier's huge limestone mansion, looming golden in the sun, was tenantless. Its owner closing even The Sedges, his Long Island house, and duly a northward for a breath of air, was expected at Shotover.

The house of Mrs. Mortimer was closed and boarded up. A caretaker apparently guarded Major Belwether's house, peeping out at intervals from behind the basement windows. As for Plank's great pile of masonry edging the outer hundreds in the north, several lighted windows were to be seen in it at night and a big yellow and black touring car whizzed down town from its bronze gateway every morning with perfect regularity.

For there was a fight on that had steadily grown hotter with the weather and Plank had little time to concern himself with the temperature or to mop his red features over the weather bureau report. Harrington and Quarrier were after him—horse, foot and dragoons. Harrington had even taken a house at Scaircliff in order to be near in person and Quarrier's move from Long Island to Shotover House was not as flippant as it might appear, for he had his private car there and a locomotive at Black Falls Crossing station and he was within striking distance of Rochester, Utica, Syracuse and Albany, which was what Harrington thought necessary.

The noise of the fray in the papers which had first excited then stunned the outside public continued in a delirium of rumor, report, forecast and summing up at the week's end.

Scare heads involving everybody and everything from the district attorney to Plank's office boy succeeded one another. Plank's name headed column after column. Already he ceding familiar in the society and financial sections it began to appear in editorial paragraphs.

Plank scarcely noticed what the press said of him. He was too busy, his days were full days brimming over deep into the night. Undaunted, inexorable, slow to the verge of stupidity at times, at times swift as a startled tiger, this new amazing personality steadily developing looming higher heavier athwart the financial horizon in stature holding his own among giants, then growing gradually inch by inch dominated his surrounding level sky line.

Harrington old, heavy, scarred, seamed, maimed in midnights of long forgotten battles, forced long ago into this world of his own deal youth which now rose towering to confront him, menacing him with the armed point of the same shield behind which he himself had so long found shelter—the law.

The closing of the courts enforced armed truces along certain lines of Plank's battle front. The adjournment of the legislature crippled Albany. Once it was rumored that Plank had passed an entire morning with the governor of the greatest state in the Union and that the conference was to be repeated. A swarm of newspaper men settled about the governor's summer cottage at Saratoga, but they learned nothing, nor could they find a trace of Plank's tracks in the trodden trails of the great spa.

Besides the racing had begun. Desmond Burbank, Sneed and others of the gilded guild had opened new club houses. There was plenty of copy for newspaper men without the daily speculative paragraph devoted to the doings of Beverly Plank. Some scandal too—but newspapers never touch that. And after all it was nobody's affair that Leroy Mortimer drove a large yellow and black touring car, new model, all over Saratoga county. Perhaps the similarity of machines gave rise to the rumor of Plank's presence; perhaps not, because the car was often driven by a tall slender girl with dark eyes and hair and nobody ever saw that sort of pretty woman in Plank's car or saw Leroy Mortimer for many days without a companion of that species.

Mortimer's health was excellent. The races had not proved remunerative however and his new motor car was horribly expensive. So was Lydia. And he began to be seriously afraid that by the end of August he would be obliged to apply to Quarrier once more for some slight temporary token of that gentleman's good will. He told Lydia this and she declined to agree with him. It's pleased him. She said not please him very much recently. For one thing she was becoming too friendly with some of his friends, Desmond in particular.

Plank it was known had opened his great house at Black Falls. His servants, gamekeepers, were there. His stables, kennels, greenhouses, model stock farm, all had been put in immaculate condition pending the advent of the master. But Plank had not appeared. His new seagoing steam yacht Siwanoa still lay in the East river and at rare intervals a significant glimmer of bunting disclosed the owner's presence aboard for an hour or two.

The Ferralls were at Shotover with their first installment of guests. Sylvia was there. Quarrier expected because Kemp Ferrall's break with him was not a social one and Grace's real affection for Sylvia blinded neither her nor her husband to the material and social importance of the intimacy. Siward was not invited. Neither had an invitation to him been even discussed in view of what Grace was aware of and what everybody knew concerning the implacable relations existing between him personally and Howard Quarrier.

Bridge, yachting and motoring were the August sports. The shooting set had not yet arrived, of course. In fact there was still another relay expected before the season opened and brought the shooting people for the first two weeks. But Sylvia was expected to last through and hold over with a brief interlude for a week's end at Lenox. So was Quarrier, and Grace always animated by a lively but harmless malice hoped to heaven that Plank might arrive before Quarrier left.

"Oh, to see them together in a small room!" she sighed ecstatically to Sylvia. "I'd certainly poke them up if they only turned around sulkily in the corners of the cage and evinced a desire to lie down."

"What a mischief maker you are!" said Sylvia listlessly.

There seemed in fact little to interest her that summer at Shotover House. Her interest too in people had seemingly been extinguished. Once or twice she did inquire as to Marion's whereabouts and learned that Miss Page was fishing in Minnesota somewhere, but would return to Shotover when the shooting opened. Somebody, Captain Voucher perhaps, mentioned to somebody in her hearing that Siward was still in New York.

The hot month dragged on. Quarrier came. A bit of gossip arrived a few days later—scheme of the Ferralls involving Alderdene—but the Siwanoa did not come and Plank remained invisible. Leila Mortimer arrived from Swan's Harbor toward the middle of the month offering no information as to the whereabouts of what Major Belwether delicately designated as her legitimate. But everybody knew he was at last to be crossed off and struck clean out and the ugly history of the winter now so impudently corroborated at Saratoga gave many a hostess the opportunity long desired.

"Gad," said Alderdene, "she's well rid of him!"

"A suit before a referee would settle him," mused Voucher. "He hasn't a leg to stand on. Ford, the same car that tripped up Stephen Siward."

Fleetwood's quick eyes glimmered for an instant in Quarrier's direction. Quarrier was in the billiard room out of earshot practicing balk line problems with Major Belwether, and Fleetwood said: "The same car that tripped up Stephen Siward. Yes. But who let her loose?"

"It was your dinner. You ought to know," said Voucher bluntly.

"I do know. He brought her," nodding toward the billiard room.

"Belwether?"

"No," yawned Fleetwood.

Somebody said presently: "But he's one of the governors. Oh, I say, that was rather rough on Siward, though."

Sylvia passing the hall glanced in through the garden door with casual sentimental smile at the men and their laughing greeting as they rose with uplifted glasses to salute her.

AN UNKNOWN KILLED.

Struck by Train on P. R. R. at Hunker Yesterday.

WORE THREE SUITS OF CLOTHES

And Evidently Had Started Out on a Tramping Tour—The Body Up to Last Evening Had Not Been Identified.

Special to The Courier.

TARR, Pa., Feb. 5.—A morning train on the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday struck and killed a man near Hunker station. The body of the unfortunate man was brought to Ruffsdale and towed over to Undertaker Springer, where it is being held awaiting a possible identity of the body. Up until late last evening no one had been able to make an identification. It is said that the man was walking on one track and in getting out of the way of one train was run down by another train coming in another direction.

From all appearances of the man he was evidently on a tramping expedition. He was clad with three pairs of pants and his other apparel was in like proportion. There was nothing found about his person that would lead to his identity, his only possession being a pipe. He is a man of medium build, being of a light complection. He wore a moustache and had about a week's growth of beard on his face.

YAMA IS COMING.

Aarons' Latest Big Musical Success Booked for New Soisson on Tuesday, February 11.

"Yama" Alfred E. Aarons' new musical comedy, which comes to the Soisson Tuesday, February 11, takes its title from the name of the city wherein the action of the play occurs, and which is the capital of the Province of Twai-Sen, China. Princess Lola Koo, hereditary ruler of the Province, who has been at school in England since childhood, returns to Twai-Sen to claim the throne which has been usurped by Ki Yen, the Prime Minister, a wily Celestial who has involved the credit of the Province by issuing collateral bonds of Twai-Sen while in England, and diverting the proceeds to his own private fortune. He has controlled the superstitious natives by issuing laws for his own benefit, but attributing them to the idol Chow, who is the divinity of Twai-Sen. Lola Koo is followed by Henri Boulevarde de Kastelaine, an excitable French lion tamer, who is madly in love with her, and is accompanied by Roxie Roberts her cockney maid. A sub-plot involved Maybelle Mayonaise, a music hall soubrette; Wally Higgins, a roving actor-manager, and Hon Buckingham Lloyd, a typical English heavy swell.

The cast is an exceptionally strong one and includes Clarence Harvey, the former Mayor of "His Honor the Mayor," Nella Webb, former leading soubrette of "His Honor the Mayor" Aarons' Dancing Dolls, the sextette of wonderful dancers, who last season created a furore in "His Honor the Mayor," Georgia Bryton, the former star of "A Chinese Honeymoon," Templar Saxe, the famous New York baritone, Violet Colby, the beautiful young prima donna last season with "The Blue Moon," James W. Castle, William O. Myers and Harry Smart, formerly of the Mme. Sherman Heinecke company, several other well known artists and a chorus of 40 really pretty girls. The company also carries an orchestra, composed entirely of soloists under the direction of Daniel Dore.

The Governor's Pardon.

The task of constructing a clean wholesome and entertaining play of dramatic strength which shall have all the requisities and novelty that is demanded by the public is no light one, and in presenting "The Governor's Pardon" at the Soisson Thursday, matinee and night, the management feel that they have accomplished everything that could be desired.

Maud Muller.

"Maud Muller" is a clean, sweet pastoral composition, full of homely, simple rural life, and exhaling an atmosphere as fresh and fragrant as that of new mown hay. Delicate comedy, clean and wholesome, interwoven with tender pathos and dramatic climaxes of stirring interest form the plot of the sweetest story ever told upon the stage.

SELF-RESPECT

A Most Important Factor in Commanding the Respect of Others.

It is an old saying that "no man has the respect of others who does not respect himself." A man to respect himself must feel that he has a stake in the community in which he lives, that the life he is leading makes for the common good. One way to gain the respect of yourself and your fellow men is to save money and deposit it in bank. When you do this you help yourself and the entire community. The First National Bank of Connellsville will be glad to assist you in saving by keeping your money safely and allowing you 4 per cent interest.

A WAR ON IN COUNCIL

At Vanderbilt With the Members Split in Two Factions.

CHARGES AGAINST A POLICEMAN

Were Tabled and Clerk Discharged Because He Listened to Advice of Two Members of Minority Instead of the Majority

Special to The Courier

VANDERBILT, Feb 5—Vanderbilt Town Council is divided It is split in two factions and as a result there has been considerable friction A regular meeting was held on Monday evening At a previous meeting there was some trouble over charges that had been preferred against Policeman Wygle

The following Councilmen were present Monday night S E Potter W James Reed F Ewing Oglevee J Wright Gween D R Kooser and J C Moore The only absent member was Sanford McBurney When the minutes of the previous meeting were read a lively debate followed as to whether they should be adopted At the last meeting held in January Policeman Wygle was present and asked Council to take some action on the charges which had been made against him The charges were made by the members of the Police Committee but they were absent and did not put in an appearance after being notified to the effect that the policeman was present and wanted to meet his accusers As they would not come the other Councilmen proceeded to transact the business Policeman Wygle laid down the paper with the charges on it which among other things stated that he was guilty of things unbecoming an officer Council refused to take any action on it and further stated that the matter was not legal as it did not bear any date

At the same meeting the Clerk was discharged charges having been made against him and among them was that he had listened to the sayings of two Councilmen and not what the seven said When these portions of the minutes were read it caused a wordy flow of language Those voting to adopt the minutes as read were D R Kooser W J Reed F E Oglevee and J W Gween Voting against their adoption were Porter and Moore

Burgess Fowler P Newmyer submitted the following report for the month of January Number of arrests 9 number paid fines, 6 number discharged 3 received for fines $7 50 received for licenses $6 total amount received $1 50 Only one bill was presented and that was from F E Oglevee for rent amount $6 It was ordered paid

Sanderson's Profit on Famous Rostrums Introduced by State in Graft Trials.

DEFENSE VIGOROUSLY OBJECTS

Measurements of These Articles by Man Who Made Them Fail to Indicate What System of Measurement Was Used in Billing Them

Harrisburg Pa Feb 5—Measured by the man who manufactured them neither the number of cubic feet nor surface feet upon which Contractor John H Sanderson has his defense in the trial of the capitol conspiracy suit could be found in the mahogany rostrums in the senate and house caucus rooms of the capitol to equal the number of feet charged against the state by the contractor Sanderson collected from the state $90 748 80 for these rostrums at the rate of $18 40 per foot and paid John F Wilt of Philadelphia the subcontractor who manufactured them $2 060 giving the contractor a profit of $88 683 or 4 305 per cent Photographs of the rostrums were put in evidence by the commonwealth after which Mr Wilt testified that they measured 208 surface feet or 1 397 cubic feet or 1 00 feet board measure and that of the 3 110 feet board measure only 1 00 feet were mahogany

The commonwealth then showed that by the invoice Sanderson billed the rostrum to the state as containing 4 932 feet Mr Rothermel of the defense objected to the introduction of the photographs insisting that if the rostrums were to figure as exhibits the jury should be taken to the capitol and permitted to inspect all the furnishings Mr Cunningham replied that the commonwealth had no objection to taking the jury to the capitol but Judge Kunkel said this was unnecessary as the only question involved was that of measurements

$701 for Single Chair

By one of the throne chairs in the house chamber the commonwealth showed that the bill for these chairs was not true to measurement while the chair cost the state 701 10 at the rate of $12 90 per foot A small window seat from the lieutenant governor's suite was billed under another item which allowed a charge of $18 40 per foot and ran up the cost of the window seat to $1 1 20

It was also shown by the commonwealth that many of Sanderson's bills were paid without having the approval of the board of grounds and buildings as required by law that the bills were not properly audited and that when there was not enough money in the active state depositories to pay the bills Mathues diverted cash from the inactive to the active banks to pay the bills

The commonwealth put in evidence a letter dated Jan 30 1905 from Sanderson's office to Shumaker saying furniture had been shipped that day The state's lawyers claimed that when compared with an invoice approved by Shumaker as received in good condition it was found that the invoice was approved and the bill paid twenty days before the goods were actually shipped The purpose was to show a fraudulent approval by Shumaker

Letter Shows Discrepancy

This letter was found last winter by the accountants of the capitol investigation in the letter file of the department of grounds and buildings The commonwealth tried to prove by Stanford B Lewis assistant of Architect Huston that the signature to the letter was that of Sanderson but Lewis said he did not think it was The commonwealth then tried to show by Lewis the signature was that of John H Stevenson a clerk in Sanderson's office The defense waived the right to have the signature proved and the letter was then temporarily withdrawn to afford the prosecution an opportunity to prove that the furniture referred to in it was to the same furniture that had been approved by Shumaker twenty days before it was shipped

A new line of testimony will be offered by the commonwealth today Just before court adjourned the state attorneys stated to the court that they had already established the fact that Huston's certificate to the furnishings in its original form simply certified that Sanderson was entitled to so much money on his contract It was then offered to prove that Snyder required Huston to change the form of certificate as to include the number of feet pounds and item number and that the architect served notice on Snyder that while he would make the change he would make no weighing or measuring of the furnishings The defense objected to this offer but its objections were overruled by the court

Nothing Left But Death or Three

New York Feb 5—For three months Max Sackman twenty six years old a paperhanger had tramped the streets in a futile effort to find work His daily goings and comings were noted by the neighbors who when the man failed to appear as usual forced an entrance to his home and found the family of three dead The bodies of Sackman and his wife were stretched upon the bed and in the arms of the father was nestled the life less form of their four months old baby Rose A rope extended from a chandelier to the bed which told the manner of death and an empty cupboard explained the motive

Flotilla Joins the Fleet

Punta Arenas Strait of Magellan Feb 5—The American torpedo boat flotilla has just arrived here

LITTLETON QUITS CASE

Harry Thaw May Get Out of Asylum Best He Can

New York Feb 5—An extended conference of counsel for Harry Thaw was held here last night to discuss what legal means should be taken to secure Thaw's removal from Matteawan state asylum The result of the conference was not disclosed but it was learned on excellent authority that Martin W Littleton who defended Thaw in the last trial has practically retired from the case

It was known that Mr Littleton's connection with the case would cease when the jury rendered its verdict but at the request of his associates he consented to lend them his aid until he started south on his vacation although his personal views on the status of Thaw's case regarding the verdict differed materially from the views of the other lawyers in the case It is known Mr Littleton believes Thaw should be left in Matteawan for several months

Albany N Y Feb 5—Dr Allen Ferris president of the state lunacy commission who visited Harry K Thaw at Matteawan said that Thaw appeared very nervous and excitable but that on a short notice it would be impossible to come to any conclusion as to his mental condition The prisoner was very cordial and gentlemanly said Dr Ferris I talked with him about twenty minutes just after he had been in conversation with his wife He was too excited for me to pursue any one line of questions but was consistent in his answers Dr Ferris said that Thaw did not appear to be despondent and that he is being treated the same as any other prisoner

BRYAN IN CIVIC FORUM

Nebraska Statesman Makes Address on the Subject of Stealing

New York Feb 5—Taking the eighth commandment as his text William Jennings Bryan pointed out to the Civic forum last night the possibilities of larceny in violation of the law and—what he said was of still greater importance—larceny through the operation of the law

Mr Bryan declared that while the law recognized two general forms of larceny petit larceny and grand larceny there had been a disposition recently to subdivide the greater crime So now he added we are inclined to think of stealing as petit larceny grand larceny and glorious larceny So general had become the tendency to overlook rascality in amazement at the genius of the man who had stolen a million that it had been suggested he said that the commandment be amended to read Thou shalt not steal on a small scale Larceny through operation of the law was possible he said if the laws were unjust or permitted an unfair advantage to any class of citizens

The Courier Co.'s Offer of "SANITO"

Earthenware Cooking Utensils.

Our Offer—This Six-piece Set of "SANITO" for - - —98 Cents.

The set, illustrated herein, consists of six pieces, as follows:

One Cooking Kettle ....2 quarts
One Cooking Kettle........ 4 quarts
One Bake Pan .... 1 quart
One Bake Pan ....2 quarts
One Two-piece Self-basting Roaster.

Good food and a good cook are not enough to produce a good meal Much depends on the vessels in which the food is prepared. The best of pure food becomes unwholesome if prepared in a vessel that is not scrupulously clean This is the chief difficulty with tin, iron or enameled vessels Not only does this food burn easily, but after the vessels have been in use for some time there is always more or less disagreeable odor coming from the bottom, no matter how they are scoured and cleaned.

This difficulty becomes a positive danger to health when the enamel, which contains arsenic, antimony and lead, begins to crack and chip off These poisons are absorbed by the foods, particularly fruits and vegetables, and often lead to chronic stomach trouble and other ailments, for which there is no apparent explanation.

For these reasons doctors, as well as teachers of domestic science, have been for years recommending the use of earthenware utensils They are always clean, always wholesome, and subject to none of the objections which obtain against metal utensils.

You now know why you should have a set of "SANITO" Kitchen Utensils, and

Here Is the Way to Get Them:-- Send in your subscription for The Daily Courier for 4 months and you can have our six-piece set for 98c. Remember this set would cost you $2.50 any place in the United States, therefore, its up to you to get a set while they last.
